A: You need to check out your condenser, it sounds like you may have an overheated condenser... or bent sleeve... those two choices are the most common. Here is a YouTube video of someone talking about condenser repair. The microphone in the video has a multimeter built in and he was able to view the resistance and high current draw. (Note: He was measuring the resistance from the tip of the condenser to the multimeter, so you may get different results). Note: This will be a very noisy job unless you have a good noise reduction mic. Here is a YouTube

video of someone cleaning a condenser. 570a42141b
