The series of interviews published in the FIFA Magazine provides a deeper look into FIFA 22 in-game features, including the introduction of new FIFA Features, Ultimate Team, new Live Events, Real Player Motion, Protect the Dribble, Team Physics, the Frostbite Engine and the new ball physics. The interview was conducted by four members of the FIFA development team, led by Creative Director David Rutter and Digital Art Director Colin Turkington. Read the interview below and check out the gameplay in action in the video below. "This is our first huge release on PS4 and it's going to feel totally new and different from FIFA 21. We have re-designed the way players move and interact, so it's a big step forward and something that we've been working on for a while. "In FIFA 21, we introduced the ability to play directly within a match. We also included a few new game modes and a couple of tweaks to the gameplay itself. In FIFA 22, we're focusing on what people want from FIFA: the ability to feel more like a football manager and to build an FC using the latest global transfer data. For FIFA 22, we've also introduced a new look to the game. "Our aim is to provide more choice to the player and make his decisions more meaningful. We wanted to simplify the way players control the game, so we've also introduced a new and more intuitive control system. The ball is also being revamped and the physics have been improved to reflect the speeds of players and the game on any surface. We're also improving the way goals are scored and deliveries are blocked. "There's a lot happening in FIFA 22 but today I'm not going to say a lot more about the game. We'll be announcing more details as we get closer to the launch date, but I'm really excited about what we have created this year. We've been working on this for a long time and I can't wait to share the fruits of our labour with you." Watch the FIFA 22 gameplay trailer Players and gameplay updates The team has been working hard on many of the changes to the game and there are a few that you will see in FIFA 22, including: The ability to play directly within a match, from your
